

Journal of Medical Law and Ethics
Brief instruction for the author

Articles and Essays

Articles and Essays will include theoretical discussions on morality (for example, abortion laws and embryo and stem cell research). These submissions are particularly welcome in the journal and will provide a back-drop for future academic commentary.

Word count: 7000 words; refs not included

References: 30

Empirical research reports

An empirical research report should be divided in the the following sections: title page, abstract, introduction, methodology, results, discussion, conclusion

Word count: 3000 words; refs not included

References: 30

(Brief) Reports and commentaries

Reports and commentaries will examine brand-new medical legislation and contemporary ethical issues. These will include product liability and licensing (i.e. new drugs and the subsequent trials and regulations governing them), stem cell research developments, and new Parliamentary Bills/constitutional decisions.

Word count: 2500 words; refs not included

References: 15

Case notes

Cases can radically reform large areas of the law, and a regular opportunity for case commentaries will ensure that the journal is at the forefront of significant legal developments.

Word count: 3500 words; refs not included

References: 15

Bookreviews

Word count: 2500 words; refs not included

References: 15

Submission of Contributions

Contributions should be submitted in British English by e-mail, in Word to the Chief-Editor, Miss Lisa Cherkassky (L.Cherkassky@derby.ac.uk) Contributions will be considered for publication by the editors on the understanding that the articles have not previously been published and are not under consideration elsewhere.

The length of the articles should usually be no longer than mentioned above.

The title page should have the following information:

1. Article title.
2. Authors' names and institutional affiliations.
3. The name of the department(s) and institution(s) to which the work should be attributed.
4. Contact information for corresponding authors.

5. Source(s) of support in the form of grants, equipment, drugs, or all of these.

6. Word counts.

7. The number of figures and tables.

Reference list

Please provide a reference list with the bibliographic details of the cited books, book chapters, or journal articles. The list should only include works that have been published or accepted for publication. Personal communications and unpublished works should only be mentioned in the text or the footnotes.

Reference list entries should be alphabetized by the last names of the first author of each work.

Conflict-of-Interest Notification Page

When authors submit a manuscript, whether an article or another publication, they are responsible for disclosing all financial and personal relationships that might bias their work. To prevent potential conflicts of interest from being overlooked or misplaced, this information needs to be part of the manuscript.

An author maybe asked to complete a Conflict of Interest Disclosure Form.

An abstract of not more than 250 words should be submitted with the article.

Authors will be asked to submit key words with their article.

For more information click here