

Publication Ethics and Publication Malpractice Statement

This journal is a member of, and subscribes to the principles of, the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE) www.publicationethics.org. The REALaw editors will operate in alignment with the Code of Conduct for Journal Editors developed by COPE, which provides a forum for publishers and Editors of scientific journals to discuss issues relating to the integrity of the work submitted to or published in their journals. We encourage the best standards of publication ethics and take all possible measures against publication malpractices.

Potential conflict of interest

Conflict of interest exists when an author (or the author's institution), reviewer, or editor has financial or personal relationships that inappropriately influence (bias) his or her actions (such relationships are also known as dual commitments, competing interests, or competing loyalties).

Editors who make final decisions about manuscripts must have no personal, professional, or financial involvement in any of the issues they might judge.

All participants in the peer-review and publication process must disclose all relationships that could be viewed as potential conflicts of interest.

When authors submit a manuscript, whether an article or another publication, they are responsible for disclosing all financial and personal relationships that might bias their work.